SALT LAKE AND STATE NEWS

TEN YEARS FOR YOUNG INDIAN.

Salt Lake, June 17.—Accompanied by Deputy United States Marshal H. P. Myton, who brought him from Aneth, Utah, and his interpreter, a young Navajo Indian who answers to the name of Fitz Lee, Dan Tsose, the youthful murderer of four members of his tribe, appeared before Judge Marshall this morning, and was sentenced to a fine of $100 on each of the four counts and an imprisonment of 10 years in the Leavenworth, Kansas federal prison.

The boy came into the court room dressed in an old pair of overalls, and an old khaki colored canvas coat. His long straight hair fell around his face, and well into his neck, and as he took his seat in the court room and looked toward the judge, he seemed to be absolutely free from any realization of the heinousness of his crime. He had been maltreated, he claimed, and he had therefore killed his oppressors, and he seemed to act as if that was an entirely satisfactory reason for his action. He did not appear to be much concerned with the proceedings about him, though he exhibited alertness when he was asked to sit or stand or answer questions through the interpreter.

He stood while Clerk of the Court J. P. Letcher read the indictment of the grand jury to him. It was slow work, as every passage had to be interpreted by Fitz Lee, the interpreter, who was duly sworn and testified as to his knowledge, of the English and Navajo languages. In interpreting he did so in measured words, using his right hand very freely as if to emphasize his statements to the prisoner. At the conclusion of the reading of the indictment, Judge Marshall instructed the interpreter to ask him if he killed the parties. The boy answered in the affirmative, saying that they had ill-treated him. The first count, that of assaulting the woman, who, though wounded, recovered, was stricken out, and on account of the boy's age, the charges against him were made one of manslaughter, and he was sentenced as above.

When asked by the court through the interpreter if he had an idea of what would be done to him, or how he would be punished for what he had done, he said he had none. He was to all intents and purposes a wild boy of the hills, and as such he excited sympathy from all present. The boy stated to the district attorney that he had never received any kindness from anyone excepting a brother and a sister. The hand of everyone else, he intimated, had been against him. If he did not do as he was told he was beaten and ill-treated. As he told his story he shed tears, which showed some susceptibility.

The boy was taken to the office of the United States marshal, who connected with his journey to the federal prison at Leavenworth were discussed. Just who will take him there had not been decided this morning by U. S. Marshal L. H. Smyth, but it was said that he would start on his journey in the course of two or three days.

As the boy is somewhere between 15 and 16 years of age—no one knows his exact age—he will be about 25 years old when he is released after serving his sentence. In the meantime, he will be well cared for, and the training he will receive there will be much better for him than anything that he has known. If his story is true even the strict discipline of the prison will seem extreme kindness to the boy, who has received, if the truth has been told, more than his share of the rebuffs usually accorded the orphan.

BIG VOTE AGAINST CAPITOL.

St. George, June 17.—The county commissioners canvassed the votes in the special election for a state capitol today. The results showed 84 votes cast in favor of the levy and 310 votes against the levy—a majority of 226 votes against the proposition. The extremely heavy local taxes in St. George this year to install the water system help to explain the result in this city.

The quarterly conference of St. George's church convened in the state tabernacle here on Saturday and Sunday, June 12 and 13. Elder George F. Richards of the quorum of the council of twelve was present. While in this city he will also visit several of the settlements in the eastern part of the state.

The annual stock sales have been in progress during the past week, several thousand steers having been sold from this county and the Arizona strip north north of the Colorado. The prices are fully up to the average, perhaps above. People are connecting up with the water system now.

Work on the electric light plant continues. It is hoped to have the lights available this autumn.

The ice plant is making ice in quantities this hot weather. It is a great luxury here in this warm climate, but the demand for it is not as great as was expected.

There is some agitation on the matter of a creamery in this city. If it can be made profitable to the promoters there is no doubt that a creamery would be a boon to the people of this county.

LURED SWEETHEART TO SALT LAKE TO ROB HER.

Salt Lake City, June 17.—The story told to the police by Sarah Hopkins, a dusky damsel, of how she had been enticed to Salt Lake from her Tennessee home a week ago by the alluring promises of her lover, only to find herself robbed by him last night of her savings and a three-hundred-dollar diamond ring led to the arrest of the man, James Talton.

When searched at headquarters neither the money nor the ring could be found, but he is held pending further investigation. Talton has the appearance of the colored man who likes to dress well and live the easy life without working for it. The girl told of how he importuned her to come here, telling her that he had work at big wages. Upon her arrival here she found him idle, and since that time has been forced to contribute to his support until last night, she alleges, he took her purse and ring.

This afternoon Jailer Earl Ripley went to Talton's room and made a thorough search of the place. Although Talton stoutly denied at the police station that he had the ring and money.

ARE GETTING BUSY WITH WANLASS GROUP.

Salt Lake City, June 17.—Preparations are being made by John Roundy and associates for an extensive campaign of development for the Wanlass group of claims in North Tintic. Machinery is to be installed shortly and the property is to be equipped in a first class manner. It is asserted by the officials of the company that every effort will be made to get down to depth on the property this summer, and according to surface indications some good ore bodies should be encountered at a depth of 200 or 300 feet.

The Wanlass Mining company was recently incorporated with John Roundy, superintendent of the Knight interests in Tintic, as president and general manager; Perry B. Fuller, who is an assistant to Mr. Roundy, is vice president and W. E. Evans, another man in the employ of the Knights, is secretary and treasurer. The officers, with E. F. Burch, Nate Rockhill and Oliver Cederstrom, form the directorate.

The property consists of twenty-two full claims and is seven claims in length. According to Mr. Roundy, the property is in a dolomite line similar to that in the Colorado and Iron Blossom. Besides this he asserts that a lime and quartz contact and a lime and porphyry contact run the entire length of the property. A vein of quartz which traverses the entire length of the property is about ten feet wide, it is asserted. Assays from this have shown from six to ten ounces of silver to the ton. At frequent intervals there are a number of manganese blow-outs.

It was under the direction of John Roundy that the Humburg, Uncle Sam, Colorado, Beck Tunnel and Iron Blossom mines were developed. Before being interested in the property Mr. Roundy made a thorough investigation of the old Gold Blossom mine and is now convinced that there is ore to be found there. Burch and Fuller, who are also old hands in the district, declare they are of the same opinion.

The property is four and a half miles north of Homansville and just east and north of the old Gold Blossom mine. It is a large tract of land that produced good lead and silver ore in the early days. For years this property has lain idle, but it is now being worked.

The company is capitalized at $100,000, with shares at 10 cents each. Of this number 400,000 shares were set aside as treasury stock.

G. A. R. FLORAL DESIGNS.

Salt Lake City, June 17.—William Naumann, the head gardener at the Temple block, is making preparations for an attractive floral display in the Temple grounds during G. A. R. week. Already some of the designs are being worked out, notably one on the green sloping lawn south of the Temple. There the words "Welcome" stand out in bold relief, and they are expected to appear much more so when all the flowers shall be fully out in bloom. Beneath the word "Welcome" is a good reproduction of an eagle with outstretched wings in chipped granite, and beneath that again is the G. A. R. badge and two flags, with the letters "G. A. R." in red, white and blue flowers with which the place is made up are expected to show at their best about the time of the G. A. R. encampment, and will no doubt prove a mute but effective token of the favor with which the veterans will be received and cared for. Other designs are going to be made, which when completed will make the Temple grounds more striking than they have ever been. The grounds look better than ever this year.

UTAH COUNTY TAKES AMERICAN FORK TOLL ROAD.

Provo, June 17.—At the meeting of the county commissioners yesterday Abel J. Evans, J. H. Wooten, Robert Anderson, Don C. Strong and others appeared and asked the county to take over the American Fork canyon toll road, as the company having the franchise could not afford to keep the road in repairs. There is an indebtedness against the company of about $500, which the company was willing to turn over to the county, and rather urged that it be accepted along with the road. The committee pointed out the great revenue that was being received from mining and other industries in the canyon and expressed the opinion that it would be the right thing for the county to take the road and keep it up.

The commissioners finally decided that the county would take the road but not the indebtedness of the company. It was further decided to expend about $1,500 in improving the road this season.

CATTLEMAN IS HELD UP BY THREE NEGRO WOMEN

C. W. Dyer of Chicago Has Experience With Dusky Amazons.

Salt Lake, June 18.—Held up by three negro women at Second West and Second South streets, C. W. Dyer, a cattleman of Chicago, was robbed of $185 Thursday night, but only after he had put up a desperate fight against the trio of dusky amazons, and had given chase to out of them until she threw away the money. Ninety dollars of the amount was recovered shortly afterward by Lieut. R. D. Shannon, Sergeant J. J. Roberts and Detective Howell, who found it scattered along the street.

Dyer was walking along West Second South street shortly after 11 o'clock, when a woman, who gave her name to the police as Edna Forrest, called to him. As he stepped to her she threw her arms around him and began going through his pockets. Dyer grabbed the woman, whereupon she cried for help.

The other negro women who said their names were Ethel Weil and Jessie Mack, rushed out of the darkness and began pumping Dyer over, he held onto the Forrest woman, and the others, becoming frightened, ran.

TRYING TO LAND CARP COSTS BOY HIS LIFE

Walter H. Thomas, Aged Four Years, Jerked Into Water and Drowned.

Salt Lake, June 18.—Trying to land a big carp cost the life of Walter H. Thomas, 4 years old, son of John Thomas, of Pleasant Green, on Wednesday. The boy was dragged bodily by the fish into an irking ditch, swept through a 16-foot flume and tossed out upon a field sixty rods below.

The youngster, with his brother, was fishing in the ditch, which was swollen by the melting snows, when a large carp was hooked. In an attempt to pull the fish out, the boy slipped into the ditch. His brother tried to seize a hand which the lad raised above the water and nearly toppled in also. The boy was swept away, before the other Thomas boy could raise the alarm.

After being carried through the flume, the boy's body was washed into a field which was being irrigated.

RECLAMATION PROJECT.

Provo, June 17.—The promoters of big reservoirs at the head of Provo river, where the waters of a large number of lakes is to be impounded during the winter and spring and let down to the valleys below through Provo river during the irrigation season, have conferred with the state land board with a view of obtaining the assistance of the board for the project. They believe they will be successful in obtaining about $100,000 for the scheme. It is expected the water obtained will irrigate 10,000 acres of land in this and Provo valleys.

HARVEST CONDITIONS.

St. George, June 17.—The harvest of grain in Dixie has commenced. The crop bids fair to be fairly good. The first cutting of alfalfa was unusually light but the next one will be much heavier. New potatoes and peas are on the tables of the people here; strawberries are about gone; currants, apricots and apples are ripening.
